

Toolbox Talk

Community Engagement

The purpose of Inclusion in Construction Week is to showcase best practices, provide opportunities to build new business connections, and facilitate resources and trainings. Your engagement is crucial to making the week successful.

Today is a day to celebrate, embrace, and appreciate the unique cultural aspects of the communities where we live and work. Each community has different needs, and it's important to recognize those differences when considering how to give back. We encourage everyone—individuals, teams, and project locations—to take the time to invest in a community project. But do your research first; avoid simply “checking the box.” Instead, find an opportunity that aligns with your community and company culture and make a meaningful impact.

AGC: AGC's Inclusion Council has assembled a list of community projects looking for volunteers. Review the list and find one that fits your team. Find creative ways to encourage full participation. The list can be found here. <https://www.agc-oregon.org/resources/inclusion-resources/>

Action 1: Review the list and find one that fits your team. Find creative ways to encourage full participation